LEAVENWORTH, Nov. 14.—In the case of ex-Mayor Anthony, of this city, vs. General Thomas Ewing, for false arrest, the jury yesterday rendered a verdict for the defendant. This was an action for twenty thousand dollars damages, based on the arrest of Anthony while Mayor of Leavenworth, during the war, by United States detectives, who took him to Missouri, where he was discharged.

Old Republican Wigwam at Chicago Burned.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The old Republican Wigwam, in which Lincoln was first nominated for the Presidency, was totally burned last night. Loss, about $5,000. It had been occupied for business purposes since 1861.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The first stone of the main edifice of the new postoffice at City Hall Park was laid yesterday afternoon.

Miguel D. Aldema, President of the Cuban Junta, refuses Commodore Higgins any explanation of the detention of the steamer Cuba at Wilmington. He notifies the officers and men of his command that they are honorably discharged, but the Junta will be happy to utilize their services in the future.

Edward B. Ketchum was yesterday discharged from prison in Sing Sing. The term of his sentence was reduced by commutation eight months for uniform good conduct.

The match factory of Hewing & Borbeck, Hudson City, was seized by Col. Whitely, Chief of the Secret Service of the Treasury, and the U. S. Revenue Collector of the District. The proprietors were arrested for using counterfeit stamps for matches furnished by John Rabon, who was arrested as previously announced. They are committed for examination for want of bail of $10,000. $10,000 worth of counterfeit tobacco and match stamps are known to have been manufactured. Col. Whitely has succeeded in capturing $80,000, in the last three months.

The anniversary of the foundation of the Methodist Missionary Society was celebrated to-day by sermons on the subject in all the Methodist Episcopal Churches of New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City. In the afternoon Bishop Simpson in the course of his remarks said that unless the members subscribed 25 per cent. over the sum subscribed for the year ending December, 1869, ($650,000) it would be impossible for Missionaries to maintain even the ground already gained.

The foundation stone of the new Catholic Church of St. Bridget's Cathedral, accommodating 1,000 persons, was laid to-day in Jersey City, by the very Rev. Dr. Corrigan, Vicar General of the Diocese of New York.

Cincinnati Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, 14.—Rabbi Blenthal in the services yesterday spoke against religious institutions in Public Schools, as incompatible with the genius of American institutions, quoting the decisions of Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York Courts, and declaring that America is not a Christian country.

Miscellaneous.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 14.—The wife of a man named Rizzle was found dead this morning with her head crushed. Her husband is the supposed murderer.

From Cuba.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Havana letters intimate that many members of the Spanish Club in that city despair of the condition of affairs, and that Spain favors the idea of Cuba looking out for her own matters. The expedition against Ceragna de Copard it is feared will prove anything but a success, owing to the nature of the country, which 500 insurgents could hold against the entire Spanish army. The Captain General has relieved officers in command at Cinovillas for incompetency and want of energy. It is reported that 400 Spanish troops at Cinovillas joined the insurgents. 600 troops from Porto Rico arrived at Havana November 7.

Financial Matters.

It is understood the President considers the present condition of our finances as most favorable to a speedy return to specie payment. In his forthcoming message he will urge such measures upon Congress as will insure it. He is opposed to all tinkering with currency and believes if the present revenue law be suffered to remain intact another year, such a tangible reduction of the public debt will then have been effected as will enable the Government safely to materially modify taxes of all kinds. A resumption of specie payment, the President argues, will prevent fluctuations in gold, break up the influence of gold gambling and save the people from ruinous excesses of irredeemable currency.

From Mexico.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—A Mexico letter states that extensive preparations have been made in the City of Mexico for the reception of Mr. Seward. Rooms have been assigned for his party at the national palace, but if he should prefer private quarters, suits have been prepared for him in one of the elegant private residences of the capital. A gentleman of distinction has been dispatched by Juarez to meet the Seward party and escort them to the city. This is the only instance in which a foreigner has been made the guest of the Mexican Republic.

Riot in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—An Irish society yesterday afternoon returning from a funeral attacked a load of passengers at Chatham Square, beating the driver seriously and injuring others. The riot lasted two hours but was finally quelled by the police.

Havana Dispatch.

The insurgents captured and burnt the settlement of Lagudzdan, which was defended by 50 volunteers. The insurgents were defeated in the attempt to capture a railroad train.

The cholera still prevails in the jurisdiction of Remedios.

Captain General De Roda has returned to Havana.

The San Domingo Story.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The sensation stories about an expedition to San Domingo are based upon the fact that Gen. Babcock has gone thither alone. Negotiations for obtaining possession of San Domingo commenced last winter, Baez being anxious to get under the flag of the United States, and would even accept a protectorate, Mr. Seward's term expired before anything was accomplished. Gen. Babcock has gone to obtain information to lay before Congress the resources and debt of San Domingo, character of the people, etc.

Private advices report Senator Grimes as improved by his visit to Europe. A second paralytic shock left him in feeble condition, though it was not as severe as the first. He is preparing for an extended trip on the Mediterranean.

Napoleon's Condition.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Letters from Paris express the opinion that Napoleon will not live six months longer. The revolutionary feeling is increasing. Government is taking measures to prevent an outbreak. Muskets are furnished the Garde Mobile for drilling purposes of which they recently have been deprived of locks and bayonets by an Imperial order.

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The brakemen on the Erie road met on Saturday at Port Jarvis to sustain the strike. They have been promised support by brakemen along the whole line and a general strike is expected.

The Sun says the diplomatic note presented to Spain, which caused the beating off negotiations, was dictated to Minister Sickles by Secretary Fish. Sickles telegraphed for permission to delay or modify demand, but was refused.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—It is reported that the freight train on the Rock Island and Pacific Railroad ran into a passenger train standing on a switch near Des Moines, Iowa, Saturday, smashing the coaches, including the palace car Colorado. No lives were lost; but 15 to 20 were injured.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—In accordance with the announcement on Friday, the Bishop of London delivered the funeral sermon of the late George Peabody at Westminster Abbey to an immense congregation. The Bishop said no untitled commoner over drew around his grave as large a concourse of sincere mourners as Peabody. The reason was that through his long life he labored for others, especially for the poor and simple in habits, unambitious of rank and power. He found his enjoyment in beneficence. It was his business to gather wealth, his joy to give it away. His name would add prestige to two great nations and would form another strand in the cord binding England and America.

LISBON, Nov. 14.—Advices per mail steamer from Rio Janeiro, which arrived yesterday, confirm previous reports of important advantages gained by the allied army in Paraguay. The Paraguayan troops are demoralized and deserting in large numbers. Lopez is convinced of a plot against him in his own army, and has shot several officers and soldiers there. The allies considered the war ended and were taking measures to increase the power of the Provisional Government for the complete tranquilization of the country. On the other hand the Paraguayans assert that the allies are utterly unable to follow up their successes; that they lack provisions, munitions of war and transportation. It is claimed that since Lopez has established his new lines at San Estavanlans his forces have increased by 8,000 and he has 40 pieces of artillery.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The United States District and Circuit Courts, and the 4th and 5th District Courts adjourned to-day in respect to the memory of Judge Alexander Baldwin, of Nevada, who was killed by the railroad accident yesterday morning.

The side wheel steamer, D. O. Haskins is on her way to this port to run between here and Vallejo for the California Pacific Railroad.

The Black Diamond Coal Company have declared their first dividend of half per cent. on their capital of five million, aggregating $25,000, payable immediately.

A dividend of $10 per share will be declared by the Kentuck Mining Co. on the 19th.

The latest intelligence from parties who were injured by the railroad accident yesterday reports them all doing well.

J. A. Lewis and James McManus were arrested to day for assault and battery.

W. Hassie was arrested to day by officer Carlisle for obstructing the public streets.

Another accident occurred about nine o'clock last evening, on the switch near Oakland Point Station, in which a man named J. Mitchell was injured, and a couple of cars damaged slightly. The Pullman cars of the Central Pacific railroad had run down to the boat and deposited their passengers and then backed up to return on the line. On the switch a number of cars were resting, against which the Pullman train, running off the line on the switch, collided, striking a baggage wagon and driving it heavily against a silver palace sleeping car, smashing the platform and bulging in the roof of the latter. The accident occurred through carelessness in leaving the switch open, throwing the cars off the direct line upon stationary carriages. A switchman named Mitchell received a severe cut on the left temple, which he alleges resulted from a Pullman car. There are many contradictory rumors as to the manner in which Mitchell was injured. One is that he was struck with a billet of wood upon the temple, by Mr. Mills, master mechanic in the employ of the Company. Mills was arrested last night and conveyed before a Justice, who released him upon receiving bonds for his appearance. It is believed that a dispute occurred at the switch, owing to which its proper arrangement was neglected. However, these are merely rumors and nothing definite has been ascertained. The platform of the Silver Palace car is much broken and the door is also shipped and injured. The baggage wagon was much shaken, but the Pullman car has sustained no damage. When Mills was examined in regard to Mitchell's accident last night, he stated that Anderson, the Engineer who was killed on the Western Pacific train, remarked some hours before the train started, that he would "make the time or die trying."

STOCKTON, Nov. 15.—George Bender, aged 16 years, son of A. S. Bender, Resident Engineer of the Western Pacific Railroad, received a slight scratch on the face last Saturday night and it was pronounced by the physicians who attended upon him yesterday as "erysipelas." The young man died this morning at ten.

The District Court has adjourned for the term. The weather to-night is quite cool.

NEVADA.

TREASURE CITY, Nov. 15.—It has been snowing here. The weather now is clear, but extremely cold.

The ore shipments to the different mills are being made as rapidly as possible. The Aurora South is shipping eighty tons daily to the Stanford Mills. This mill has been working on ore from that mine and made its first clear up on Sunday, resulting in shipping eleven bars of bullion valued at $15,811 to Messrs. J. Seligman, which goes forward on to-morrow's stage for San Francisco. All the mines are looking well, and large treasure shipments will be made in the next month. The Dayton Mill is now clearing up on Hidden Treasure ore and large results are looked for. They shipped eight thousand dollars in bullion yesterday, and are now sending ore to the Metropolitan Mill. The developments recently made are [illegible] no little excitement.

FRESHEST GLEANINGS.

At the Springfield Armory there are now about 200 breech-loaders turned out daily, combining the best points of various inventions. The Enfield rifles are being [illegible] up for sale to whoever wants them, the Sublime Porte lately bought 125,000.

From the New York Herald. With careful picking and saving it is likely that the Southern cotton crop this year will reach the handsome figure of three millions of bales. This, at the moderate average of twenty-five cents a pound, is equal to three hundred millions of dollars—a splendid exemplification of practical Southern reconstruction on a cash basis.

Miss Emerette Campbell, school teacher, of Manchester, Connecticut, compelled a delicate and extremely sensitive little girl, 8 years of age, to stand upon the floor of the class-room for five hours for the reason that she couldn't answer a question in geography. The little girl [illegible] in a state of such nervous excitement that brain fever set in and she died within forty-eight hours.

A villain named Hovey, claiming to be very rich and a minister of the Baptist Church, recently married his ninth wife in Missouri, on the strength of which he borrowed money, got drunk, and then confessed to his last victim that he had eight other wives and intended to have another before the month was out. Of course his last wife left him immediately, and the officers are now on his track.

As an evidence of the retrenchment policy of the present Administration, and the saving made in one instance since Gen. Grant came into power, it is ascertained there were about 2,[illegible] employes in the Treasury Department on the 4th of March last, at the present time the [illegible] to about 600 in the Treasury alone, which at the average pay of employes, will amount to [illegible] per month.

From the Downieville (Cal.) M[illegible]: An old trapper, who crossed the plains thirty-five years ago, says there was no grass at all on [illegible] known as the Great American D[illegible], but only a few sage bushes and [illegible]. Now [illegible] soil formed over the sand and gravel, and grass covers the entire surface. This curious [illegible] goes on fast and [illegible] every year. This is why so many people have [illegible] astonished at not finding any Great American D[illegible], and say it was only a myth. The truth is that it did exist, but has [illegible] away.

From the New York Times, Oct. [illegible]: It is announced that the tiny craft [illegible] Captain Jenks, will depart this [illegible] derry is the first port she will call at. The Captain is a [illegible] down E[illegible] of the most adventurous type, and, withal, a skillful navigator. The craft takes five people, all told—Captain, crew and passengers, and, [illegible] Red, White and Blue, but, [illegible] she takes two Newfoundland dogs. The diminutive vessel has already been good [illegible] of iron and is ship rigged. Her [illegible] to stern is twenty-three [illegible] tons burden. She is now mounted on a wagon, in Greenwich street, near the Battery. This morning her stores will be put on board. This [illegible] noon she will be [illegible] and start on her [illegible] age, escorted by a [illegible] as far as Sandy Hook.

It would appear [illegible] years [illegible] dago statue is not yet fully [illegible] ago the New York Herald gave [illegible] to be an account of its origin [illegible] that paper of a subsequent date the following [illegible] Professor Hall, State Geologist, has viewed the Onondaga statue, and what he says of it [illegible] guarded as the [illegible] once, somewhat [illegible] sum wonder. He determined that it is [illegible] but a sculptured figure. This, however, was pretty well settled before. But he evidently [illegible] assent that there is any imposture or [illegible] discovery, and regards it as really a thing of some antiquity. His mentioning it in the [illegible] breath with the Central American [illegible] seems to point to a belief that it [illegible] vent of the white man, and this point could be determined by any person [illegible] character of American antiquities.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The Pope has [illegible] during the past eight years an average of $2,000,000 per annum, gold, from Peter's pence.

The Sultan borrowed $5,000,000 in Paris in order to celebrate Eugenie's visit in a b[illegible] manner. Some one wonders if Louis N[illegible] lent the money?

An English mathematician has figured up the weight, size, &c., of the animals that belonged to Noah's Ark, and the room required for provisions, and he finds that the ark was four [illegible] long and half a mile wide.

The Gaulois tells a little republican anecdote about Lafayette. At Lamarque's funeral the crowd took out the General's h[illegible] as he was returning home, and drew him to his hotel. "You must have been very much pleased," remarked a friend. "Very much pleased, indeed," replied Lafayette; "but I never saw anything more of my horses!"

An individual has just been arrested in France for a rather ingenious fraud. Taking advantage of the terror inspired by the late crimes at Pantin, he accosted travelers in lonely places at night, and offered to guard them in safety past places in which robbers were concealed. Sometimes he got a twenty franc piece for his [illegible], but several incredulous persons gave notice to the police, who kept a lookout for him, and have now succeeded in capturing him.

An appropriate monument to the memory of Samuel Lover, the Irish poet and novelist, has just been finished at the Kensal Green Cemetery by Mr. Graffin, the sculptor. It is of white Carrara marble, and on the top is a shadow [illegible], after the celebrated one at Bonchurch, Isle of Wight. The inscription is very simple, and is as follows: "Samuel Lover, poet, composer, novelist and painter; born Feb. 24, 1797, died July 6, 1868. 'Thy rod and thy staff comfort me.'"

The British soldier is feeling the evil effects of being swathed in the antique habiliments of a time-honored military fashion. Of 23,000 patients, chiefly from India, admitted to the military hospital at Netley, there were 1,523 suffering from heart disease, caused, it is admitted, by the present cumbrous style of accoutrement. This complaint is found impossible to eradicate, as the moment the sufferer, apparently cured, is re-equipped, all the symptoms become manifested afresh. Commenting on these facts, the Pall Mall Gazette pertinently inquires, "Need we sacrifice one additional soldier to the wisdom of our great grandfather?"

It is well understood that Queen Victoria has strong opinions upon various social abuses and misfortunes. She has, in fact, several times thrown off her reserve of royalty for the purpose of remonstrating publicly with those who are responsible. The great mass of poverty in London is always a sad attendant upon the glories of that great city, but much of it is kept out of sight. It has been lately proposed that on some public occasion—the opening by the Queen of a new bridge over the Thames is spoken of—the unemployed and starving poor shall make a demonstration. They will, it is said, range themselves at the sides of the road along which Her Majesty will pass. If this is carried out, there will be a strange spectacle of royalty and rags in close proximity, at which the world may well wonder.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 16, 1869.

A Great Danger and a Remedy for It

We learn from the New York Times that Charles Francis Adams, Jr., read a notable paper before the Social Science Association which assembled recently in that city, on the growing danger of frauds in Presidential elections and their probable consequences. This subject, as the Times says, was brought into notice, not first, but for the first time prominently, by the manner in which the Democrats carried New York for Seymour and Hoffman, last year; and the exposure of the frauds which they perpetrated on that occasion was mainly valuable as an indication, not of Democratic depravity - we knew all about that before - but of the evils attendant on the present mode of electing the President.

The Electoral College now has no agency in choosing a President, beyond recording the decision of the people already given in the choice of Electors. The vote in each State simply goes to elect the Electors, one for each Senator and Representative sent to the State by Congress, and these Electors always represent simply the State majority. If the Democrats poll one thousand more votes than the Republicans at any Presidential election in New York, it does not give them simply little over half the State vote for the President,—it gives them the whole of it. The minority disappears from view, and has no further part or lot in the election; it does not go to help the vote of either candidate in any other State, as it would if the President were elected by the direct vote of the whole. The contest in each State at the Presidential election, therefore, decides which of the two great parties shall cast the whole State vote. If one side of them wins in New York by one vote, it obtains thirty-three votes in the Electoral College; and thirty-three votes are a great deal. They may, or a much smaller number might, any day, turn the scale. It will thus be seen at a glance that the temptation to fraud is enormous, and we all know that the facilities for fraud are enormous, and increasing in all the large cities. The Democratic managers may, at any Presidential election in which the contest is close, win the day by simply doing enough personating, and repeating, and forging, and ballot-stuffing to carry New York or Pennsylvania over. They might in this way neutralize the whole honest vote of half a dozen smaller States almost unanimously Republican; and a few hundred Democratic repeaters in New York City might thus be able to secure for the candidates of that party a majority of the Electoral College, though the popular vote of the Union might be overwhelmingly against them. And the worst of it is that for offences of this sort there is absolutely no constitutional remedy. The people, cheated out of the legitimate results of their majority, would have nowhere to go for redress. Even if there were a tribunal competent to hear such a complaint, party passions would run far too high to render it possible for it to decide it. There would be but one alternative—fighting, or submission, and as men do not lightly enter on civil war, the victims of the fraud would probably, for some time, at least, sit down under it patiently. The Democrats know this, and we have little doubt will govern themselves accordingly. If it should ever appear that the vote of New York or Pennsylvania is all that is needed to put the Democratic candidate in the White House, we may feel sure, judging from what happened last year, that it will be secured for him to a certainty. Supposing it to be done, and supposing the whole country to know it, what should we do? This is a good question for people to ask themselves, and the time to ask it and get an answer ready is now, in the midst of peace and quietness, and not after it comes up and presses for instant solution.

Nor would the danger be wholly averted by choosing the President directly by a vote of the people. If the contest should be very close, and a few thousand votes be all that were required to turn the scale, may we not rely upon it that the party which concocts every year such tremendous majorities in New York, would have them? Then what should we do about it? Should we quietly install the product of this fraud in the White House, and go on as if nothing had happened thus tempting the perpetrators into a repitition of it every four years ever after? Does not the mere asking of such a question suggest a difficulty of the most awful kind to every thinking mind?

To meet this danger Mr. Adams recommended the remedy brought forward by Congressman Lawrence of Ohio, who, after investigating the New York election frauds, perceived the absolute necessity of providing for the safety of the country by a constitutional check upon such stupendous rascality. He therefore introduced in the House at the last session an amendment to the Constitution which provides that each State shall be divided into districts corresponding with the number of its Presidential Electors, each district to contain as nearly as possible the same amount of population. If this plan were adopted the Democratic rings, instead of being able to carry the whole of a great State by cheating in a few wards of a city, would at most gain but two or three Presidential votes by the operation, while to secure the whole vote of a great State like New York they would have to cheat in all the districts at once, which would be quite impossible. This amendment ought to be pushed through. There is time to do it before the next Presidential election. Of course the Democratic party will oppose it, as it would effectually check the fraud which they hope to make the great instrument of success. But the Republicans are not afraid of the consequences of any measure designed to secure an honest expression of political will of the people. We hope, therefore, to see this amendment brought forward speedily.

In General.

Many of the rails used in the construction of Holladay's road were rolled at the Pacific Rolling Mills near San Francisco. The first rail rolled on the Pacific coast was for an Oregon road.

After all that has been said of the wonderful popularity of Pendleton, his vote in Ohio at the late election was smaller by more than ten thousand than thrown for Seymour last year! So much for the strength of repudiation.

The vote for Sigel in New York City was 36,682, for Greeley, 38,521. The majority against Sigel was 48,456, while that against Greeley was 39,581. These returns were quite different from what were expected, as it was supposed that Sigel would run ahead of Greeley considerably.

Beriah offers his paper as a campaign sheet until after the election next June. This is probably necessary to "raise the wind" for present uses. He is living in hope of getting the Democratic nomination for State Printer, but he won't get it. Some one of the younger and more useful men of the party will claim it.

The Herald, which always prints the dispatches without alteration, and says it is as bad as forgery to correct them, gave us the following in its Sunday's issue: "Up to the present moment 151 Deputies of the Cortes have personally pledged themselves to vote for the Duke of Genoa Forking, and 21 others, now absent, have agreed in writing to support him." Bully for "Forking!" But we, in printing the dispatch, "doctored" and "mutilated" it, so as to annihilate the illustrious "Forking," and absurdly cause the dispatch to say that all these deputies had agreed to vote for the Duke of Genoa for King."

THE WEST

Two new daily papers are mentioned as soon to be started in San Francisco—one by Mayor McCoppin, and one a dramatic paper.

A. W. Burch, brother and partner of E. C. Burch in the proprietorship of a shingle mill located on Scott Creek, Santa Cruz county, California, was killed lately by being caught in the machine.

There is a tree in Sonoma county, California, about fifteen miles below Healdsburg, which is found by actual measurment to be three hundred and forty-four feet in hight. It is said to be the tallest tree on the coast.

Wisconsin has a population of a million, more or less. In her State prison are confined 172 convicts. California has a population of about half a millian, and on the first of the present month her State Prison contained 732 convicted criminals!

According to the Millenial Star, good Mormon authority, during the present season, a trifle more than 2,300 Saints have emigrated from Liverpool, of whom about 650 were from Scandinavia, a few others were from the Continent, and thirty-nine were Elders returning from their missions.

Gov. Musgrave of British Columbia, while mounting a horse a few days ago, was thrown violently to the ground, and had his right leg broken by the fall. The shock was so violent that the broken bone was forced through the leg of the boot. The limb is now doing well.

The New York Herald thinks it a queer sign of the westward march of civilization that the case of Indians has been brought before a Grand Jury. Thus the noble savage drops down from his romantic elevation and takes his place in the criminal scale side by side with commonplace malafactors.

The ambitious town of Seattle, (W. T.) is seeking incorporation. The Bill to incorporate the city (in embryo) has been introduced into the Legislature and printed. The franchise for the municipality is noteworthy. It is provided that none but married men who keep house shall be eligible to vote or hold office. The restriction is such as one would hardly expect to meet with in a new Territory of the United States; yet we must confess there is much reason in it.

The following appears in the mail lettings: "Route 14,799—From San Francisco (Cal.) to Portland (Oregon), 600 miles and back, three times a month, in suitable and safe steamboats. Departing from San Francisco each trip as soon as practicable after the arrival of the steamers of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company from Panama, and returning so as to connect closely with the departure of those ships for Panama, the trips, each way, to be made within five days.

William Morris, recently eloped from Nevada county, California, with Miss Martha Murphy, aged 15. They travelled over a hundred miles, by stage and railroad, to Virginia City, but no license could be obtained there, because the girl was not old enough. They returned to Nevada City and put up at a hotel. The lover applied to preachers by the dozen, but none would consent to pronounce the ceremony. Meantime the furious parents appeared on the scene bent on rescuing their daughter. The young man stated that there was an "absolute urgency," and they might get a preacher or not—he couldn't. And so there was a calming down all around—and a wedding.

The San Francisco Bulletin says that work on the new mint is progressing at a lively rate. One hundred and fifty men are employed—50 stone-cutters, 50 laborers, 20 bricklayers, and 5 stone-masons. The concrete foundations were finished some two months ago. The men now employed are engaged in constructing the foundation walls. The outer walls are built of solid granite, and are about 6 feet wide. The inner walls are built of brick, and vary in width from 2 to 5 feet. These walls will vary in height from 2½ feet to 5 feet, according to the grade of the lot. The surface of the outer walls is constructed of roughly dressed granite. On these foundations will rest the basement story and two stories above. The two upper stories will be built of freestone from quarries near Victoria.

We see by the Mining and Scientific Press that a controversy in regard to the process of inserting saw teeth has been up before the U. S. Circuit Court in San Francisco, Judge Deady presiding. The best method of inserting these teeth is that discovered by a man named Spaulding, in Sacramento, in 1859. The American Saw Company of New York have been using his process, and Spaulding brought suit against them for infringement. The Court sustained Spaulding's claim. The Press says of Judge Deady's decision: All parties agree in awarding to the presiding Judge the highest commendation for patience, fairness and ability. It is an old saying among judges and lawyers, that patent cases involve the very "metaphysics of the law." Comparatively few judges or lawyers thorougly comprehend it. But Judge Deady, either from nature, study, or experience, or from all of them combined, seems to be peculiarly and well qualified to try this class of cases. In his hands what would seem to be complicate, confused and intricate, becomes simple, clear and certain.

THE FIRST RAIL ROLLED ON THE PACIFIC COAST.—The following graphic account of the "first rail," is from the Chronicle of November 6th:

To fill a contract received from the Oregon Central Railroad for the manufacture of a large quantity of railroad iron, the employes of the Pacific Rolling Mills have been almost constantly at work during the past week. Yesterday afternoon the first rail rolled on the Pacific coast was manufactured at this establishment. The process through which the iron passed to convert it into a rail is as follows: Three bundles of scrap iron, each weighing one hundred and forty pounds, were placed in the puddling furnace and underwent the process already described. After being hammered by the dudgeon they were taken to one of the brick furnaces and placed inside. "Watching the furnace" is the hardest and most trying work which is done in the rolling mills. The man who attended to this part of the business must be an expert. He must know by a glance when the iron attains the proper degree of heat—it must not melt, or the iron is lost among the cinders in the bottom of the furnace, and it must not be taken out cool, as it will be soft and brittle when allowed to become cold. At a few minutes to 3 P. M. the practiced eye of the watchman informed him that the iron was sweltered. A signal to the boy stationed at the corner of the furnace, who opened and closed the doors by means of a pulley, caused the door of the furnace to open, and the white mass of iron could be plainly seen. A large pair of tongues—suspended from the ceiling by means of a long chain—was pushed into the furnace and fastened to the iron. Seven men slowly drew the mass from its resting place, and the eighth placed an iron wagon directly underneath the door of the furnace. The shapeless heap was drawn out upon the wagon and it was conveyed to the rollers.

It was a beautiful and truly picturesque sight to see over thirty men clothed in their working attire, their sleeves rolled up over their brawny arms and the sweat pouring in streams down their faces, standing around the rollers, each grasping in his hands a pair of tongs, ready to assist in manufacturing the first "T" rail rolled upon this coast. The wagon was run up close to the first roller, the end passed in and was rolled slowly through. It was then carried to the second roller; but the workmen having delayed for a minute, the foreman said "Furnace," and it was again committed to the flames. After the lapse of fifteen minutes it was once more drawn out, passed through the several rollers until it was the required length and thickness, and then laid aside completed. Such was the manner in which the "first rail" was manufactured.

POLITICAL ITEMS.

The Cincinnati Enquirer proclaims that Andrew Johnson is to be a member of the next Congress. The House, it says, "was ex-President Adams' position, and it will be ex-President Johnson's. He is going there."

The President and Secretary Boutwell, as the Richmond State Journal says, concur in the opinion that Judge Johnson, the Senator elect from Virginia, has a moral right to the removal of his disabilities, and express the hope that Congress will remove them.

A pictorial sheet humorously depicts his ex Accidency as taking the back track and, after having gone up the ladder all the way from Alderman to President, beginning to retrace his steps by trying to achieve the place of Senator from Tennessee. But as he is trying to descend, the Senatorial round of the ladder breaks, and Andy comes tumbling heels over head to the bottom.

Just before the recent election in Massachusetts the Republican State Central Committee of Massachusetts issued a brief address showing that the Republican party is not hostile to the interests of labor, and that the Democratic party is not only incapable of settling the liquor question on any sound and permanent basis, but it has no desire to do so, its settled policy being to keep this question open.

The Mississippi Democrats held a small State Convention in Canton recently, and passed resolutions avowing themselves Democrats, denying the right of the 125 citizens in their address to dictate to the Democratic party, and recommending that Democrats have nothing to do with either Alcorn or Dent. They found it inexpedient to nominate a State ticket, and will endeavor to maintain a position of "strict neutrality" in the canvass.

A Washington letter says: "We have some of those she-secesh back here, wrapped in treason as in a threadbare garment, declaiming about State rights as a satyr would discourse on girlhood charms. Glorying in their rebellion, they do not appear conscious that their political lamps have burned out, never again to be filled, yet the foolish creatures trim the spluttering wick, and hope for the re-enslavement of the negroes and the annihilation of the Yankees."

BURNETT'S COCOAINE.—Honest and intelligent barbers recommend it.

The Steamer Geo. S. Wright in the Great Gale.—The following account of the Geo. S. Wright in the recent gale off Cape Flattery is from the Colonist of the 13th: "The last trip of the steamship Geo. S. Wright from Portland was attended with peculiarly terrifying circumstances. The steamer had on board the Wilson circus troupe, consisting of about thirty lady and gentlemen performers and attendants, four African lions, a bear, two leopards, four monkeys, a woolly calf, and a dozen fine horses, the latter animals specially trained for the purposes of the Circus. The live stock were all in the forward part of the ship—the lions being confined in their cages and the horses and other animals fastened with halters to the guards. The steamer crossed the bar early on Sunday morning, and with a fair breeze sped rapidly along toward the Straits. Everything went well with the travelers until about 1 o'clock on Monday morning, when the steamer was in full view of Cape Flattery light and within forty-five minutes of a safe harbor. The passengers were sleeping peaceably in their berths, when suddenly a gale of unparalleled fury swept down upon the vessel with scarcely any warning of its approach. The steamer rolled and plunged before the force of the [illegible]; the sea rose and great angry looking billows swept down upon and clean over the devoted ship. In a moment all was confusion in the forward part of the steamer. The horses fastened there were first to feel the shock. The dashing of the waves over the bows wet and chilled the poor brutes, and soon the decks became too slippery for them to maintain their feet, one by one they slipped and fell, and being unable to rise, were tossed helplessly from side to side as the ship rolled and plunged. The lions in their cage roared with rage and alarm at the unusual motion to which they were subjected and threatened to break out every minute, the bear and the woolly calf bleated with terror, and the monkeys and performing bear broke from their fastenings and, uttering plaintive cries, took refuge in the cabin, where the terrified male and female passengers, some of whom had hastily thrown on a few articles of clothing, were huddled regardless of each other with an expression of mute despair. The oldest traveler on board had never [illegible] weather, and Capt. Rogers, finding [illegible] would be to imperil the lives of all on board, [illegible] putting the nose of the steamer in the [illegible] of the wind awaited the appearance of daylight. [illegible] four of the best trained horses [illegible] died—they had been bruised and [illegible] to death on the decks and against the guards, by [illegible] of the ship during the night; two other [illegible] to be so desperately injured as to render [illegible] a matter of very great doubt. One of the [illegible] was also dead from the effects of exposure and fright. The carts [illegible] were thrown overboard and the [illegible] cared for. All Monday and Tuesday night [illegible] continued with scarcely any intermission, and [illegible] the most experienced seamen were prostrated [illegible] and kept in their rooms or lay in a [illegible] wretchedness on the cabin floor, the bear, [illegible] and the monkey, huddled among them. [illegible] night, Mr. Neustadt, purser of the steamer, [illegible] on deck with the captain, had occasion to [illegible], when he stepped upon a soft, yielding [illegible] the threshold. 'My friend,' said the [illegible], 'you shouldn't be there; you had better go to [illegible].' A feeble moan was the only response; and [illegible] the purser discovered the performing [illegible] dead from the combined effects of [illegible]. The monkeys exhibited the liveliest [illegible]. They were here, there and everywhere, [illegible] to the situation of affairs, and whenever [illegible] sea struck the vessel and caused [illegible], they would utter shrill cries and run from [illegible] as if for protection. For twenty-nine [illegible] little boat was driven slowly northward [illegible] of the Straits, and when about abreast [illegible] early on Tuesday morning, the wind [illegible] as quickly as it had sprung up. The order [illegible] was given from the deck, and in a few hours [illegible] was steering through the comparatively [illegible] of the Straits, and her wearied and [illegible] crawled out of their hiding places to [illegible] their almost miraculous escape, and to [illegible] the bright blue sky and bask in the revivifying [illegible]. The ship passed through [illegible]. The circus company lose [illegible] animals."

[illegible] Tragedy.—The [illegible] account of the killing of H. S. [illegible] Burmester, on the 7th inst. We condense [illegible]: The parties met by accident [illegible] with Burmester, and a Mr. [illegible] each other about twenty [illegible] account of the affair is that, ob[illegible] his hand on his pistol at the [illegible] turned after they had pa[illegible], and [illegible] you mean by such actions?' to [illegible] mean that you are a —— of a [illegible] first shot. We understand that [illegible] did not see the parties when the [illegible] had turned to run away. It is [illegible] some evidence to contradict the [illegible] that Morford fired the first shot. [illegible] three shots were fired by each, and at [illegible] was placed in the right temple [illegible] Burmester's pistol. Burmester was [illegible] the current report of the tragedy [illegible] unconscious until yesterday morning [illegible] o'clock." The cause of the dif[illegible] a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Morford [illegible] Burmester was one of her attorneys. Both [illegible] expected a battle and both went [illegible] reports concerning unpleasant [illegible] between Mr. and Mrs. Morford, and [illegible] towards Burmester; also that [illegible] difficulty, intended to make a [illegible]. Mrs. Morford had been separated [illegible] some weeks and was at Silver [illegible] killing occurred. She came over and was [illegible]. Mr. Morford was a native of Law[illegible], about thirty-seven years old. We [illegible] private source, that Burmester was held [illegible] bail.

[illegible] vs. Edgar Poppleton; all day consumed [illegible]

[illegible] The Statesman says: Several families came [illegible] last night bound up the river to settle. [illegible] across the continent by rail, and from California [illegible] the Ajax.

There is a family now in Salem who came by rail from [illegible] San Francisco for the trifling sum of $25 cur[illegible] [illegible] stand that the Company attach emi[illegible] to the freight trains and thus bring passengers [illegible] in twelve days, at the above figures.

[illegible] been a case of poisoning that deserves attention [illegible] many persons in the country incur the [illegible] frequently, and may be ignorant of the danger [illegible]. Mr. Jordan, of the firm of Downer & Jordan, [illegible] some three weeks since, covered a saddle with [illegible] poisoned in a finger that had been [illegible] by an awl or a needle. There is a certain amount [illegible] in every such hide, but saddlers guard against [illegible] putting lime on them, and Mr. Jordan supposed [illegible] been so treated when he used it. We are told [illegible] several instances have occurred where arms have [illegible] from this cause, and one man in [illegible] county died from being so poisoned and not properly [illegible]

[illegible] for China.—The bark Hattie C. Besse left [illegible] yesterday morning, in tow of the Fannie [illegible] destination being Hong Kong, China, with [illegible] consigned by Wa Kee and Tong Duck Chung, [illegible] prominent firms of this city. She takes a large [illegible] of flour, potatoes, old iron, broken glass, Yankee [illegible], and Chinese use, bones of defunct Celestials, etc., [illegible] nearly two hundred Chinese passengers. The [illegible] the deck of the vessel and on the wharf, as the [illegible] drew near, was almost beyond description. [illegible] that every Chinaman in the city and [illegible] neighborhood, accompanied by all the [illegible] and dogs, were congregated on the [illegible] their friends off for home. Such a [illegible] crackers, such a confusion of tongues and [illegible], leaping, gesticulating, and cavorting [illegible] never witnessed in this city by even the [illegible]. A voyage begun with such eclat can [illegible] to be prosperous—unless it should turn out [illegible]. We understand that Mrs. Captain Besse, [illegible] from New York a few days since, goes [illegible] for the round trip.

[illegible] Sale.—We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Stitzel & Upton, land brokers, under the [illegible] "New To-Day." In addition to the large amount [illegible] property which they offer for sale, they have the [illegible] of a great number of tracts of choice [illegible] in various parts of the State, a few of which [illegible] advertised in this morning's paper. Parties in search [illegible] would do well to call at their office, southeast [illegible] of Front and Washington streets.

The Marble Heart.—This beautiful drama was performed last evening at Oro Fino Theater, to a full house. The play, with the single exception that there are one or two colloquies of too great length, is an excellent one, full of wit, humor, laughable situations, sentiment, pathos and all the qualities necessary to excite and retain the interest of the audience. Mrs. Bates plays two male characters, in which she personates the dreaming young sculptor and then the ardent passionate lover, very charmingly. The tableaux in which Mrs. Carter, Mrs Bird and Mrs. Lipsis represented statuary, are beautiful indeed. We have neither time nor space to speak of the several parties as they deserve to be mentioned, but we must say that as the piece is cast, there are half a dozen or more who rank almost as stars. No piece has been played here in which the characters have all been so well personated. We are pleased to announce that the Marble Heart will be presented again to-night, and without hesitation, we advise everybody to go and see it.

More About the Jennie Boise Poisoning Case.—The following letter is from a correspondent at Salem, dated Nov. 13th:

Editor of Oregonian: Your readers will remember concerning this case that Miss Jennie Boise, of Polk county, was found dead some months ago, under circumstances calculated to awaken suspicion that poison had been administered. Certain physicians having pretended to make a chemical examination of the stomach and contents, and having declared that no trace of poison could be found, suspicion was therefore naturally allayed, but it now transpires that Dr. Veatch, who is a good practical chemist, had also received a portion of the contents of the stomach, in a sealed vial, for analysis, and he found poison in sufficient quantity to destroy life. Under these circumstances a renewed interest in the case is felt among the people.

Officers of the State Agricultural Society.—By request we publish a list of the officers of the State Agricultural Society, with the postoffice address of each appended:

President—Daniel Clark, Salem.
Vice Presidents—Wm. A. Mills, Centerville, Washington county; R. B. Willoughby, Pine, Linn county.
Secretary—John Minto, Salem.
Treasurer—J. H. Moores, Salem.
Directors—C. P. Burkhart, Albany; J. W. Lewis, Oregon City; M. Wilkins, Willamette Forks, Lane county; B. E. Stewart, North Yamhill, Yamhill county; N. Newton, Corvallis; John Allen, Dallas, Polk county; and C. P. Bacon, Portland.

Woolen Mill Suspended.—The Willamette Farmer of Saturday, says: "The Willamette Woolen Manufacturing Co.'s mills suspended work on Thursday last. The suspension will continue until a portion, at least, of their present manufactured goods is disposed of. The stoppage is not occasioned by the inability of the Company to procure sufficient wool in this State to run the mill, as stated by a local cotemporary. On the contrary, enough stock can be secured, if desired, to run the mills on full time. The Company has a very heavy stock of woolen goods on hand and a temporary suspension is deemed advisable to allow of the disposal of a portion of that stock."

Pretty Good.—The Farmer says: "The Oregon Central Railroad is completed to within forty-six miles of Salem." This is pretty near as good as a paragraph we saw the other day in another paper stating that a certain railroad was rapidly approaching completion—the only thing lacking being the iron and rolling stock!

Flax Growing in Oregon.—The growing of flax is rapidly becoming an important branch of agriculture in this State. The Oil Company at Salem has contracted for the product of 2,800 acres for next season, and Mr. E. Cartwright has contracted on behalf of L. B. Bensley & Co. for the product of 3,800.

In the Wrong House.—A man whose name we have not learned was found a night or two since in somebody else's house, which he had entered by a window during a fit of intoxication. He was arrested to determine whether the entrance was a mistake, a drunken freak or a burglary.

Navigation Open to Corvallis.—Last Thursday, the Echo reached Corvallis, being the first steamboat arrival this fall. She returned, however, without taking much freight. On Friday, the Albany arrived and took on return freight—seventy-five tons, mostly wheat.

Street Cleaning.—The Street Commissioner had a force at work yesterday cleaning up the gutters of Washington street. He informs us that he will, as soon as possible, treat other streets in the same way. Good.

When the Geo. S. Wright Sailed.—A telegram from Victoria, dated the 10th, reached here yesterday, stating that the Geo. S. Wright sailed on the 10th. She probably put into Neah Bay during the stormy weather.

Winter Goods.—M. Moskowitz, of the New York Store, 125 Front Street, advertises a large stock of ladies', m[illegible]' and children's fur capes, muffs, etc., in another column to-day.

Columbia Foundry.—Particulars of the establishment of another foundry in this city, may be found in the advertising columns of the Oregonian this morning.

An Error.—A bungle was made in stating that the library of Leopold Wolff, deceased, was sold last Saturday. They will be sold to-day.

Philharmonic Hall was well filled with ladies and gentlemen last evening to listen to the recitations and delineations by Prof. Plummer.

Message at the telegraph office for D. Jamison, from New York.

New Saloon.—Pete Williams & Pete Emerson have opened the Willamette Exchange Saloon, on Morrison street, between Front and First, next door to the cellar entrance. The boys intend to keep it in first class style.

Latest Styles.—Those celebrated Scotch waterproofs have just arrived per steamer Ajax and are for sale by Clarke, Henderson & Cook.

Use KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP. It washes without rubbing. For sale by Allen & Lewis, Corbitt & McCleay, R. G. Sneath and all retailers.

The Railroad Iron continues to arrive by hundreds of tons. The Webfoot having a locomotive on board is on her way to our city, and everything to facilitate the building of the great Railroad is progressing as well, as those Nonpareil Beaver Suits and those extra Scotch Chinchilla "Roundabouts" are selling at KOHN & FISHEL'S, whose Stock of CLOTHING and GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS is the handsomest ever imported to Oregon, and their principle of selling with SMALL PROFITS proves a benefit to the public as well as to themselves. Their Stock of DRY GOODS is positively offered at COST.

The Next Quarter of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary will begin November 22, 1869. T. M. GATCH, Principal.

General Debility is Nature's Appeal for Help.

Thousands of persons, without any specific ailment, are the victims of languor and lassitude. The unthinking are apt to confound this species of inaction, with laziness, whereas it usually arises from a want of organic energy, for which the subjects of it are no more responsible than the near sighted are for their defective vision. Such persons, although they may be free from pain, are as truly invalids, and as much in need of medical aid, as if they were tormented with the pangs of acute disease. They require a tonic and alterative, that will rouse and regulate their torpid organizations. In cases of this kind, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS produce an immediate and most favorable effect. The debilitated and desponding valetudinarian, who feels as if he were but half alive, who shuns company, and has no relish either for business or pleasure, is metamorphosed, by a brief course of this most potent vegetable invigorant, into quite a different being. The change effected by the BITTERS, in his bodily and mental condition, is a surprise to himself and to his friends. He mopes no longer, the active principle of life, which seemed to have died out of him, is re-awakened, and he feels like a new man. Remembering that debility is not only an affliction itself, but an invitation to disease, no time should be lost in recruiting the broken down system with this choicest and most potent of all TONICS AND NERVINES.

Where Do Things Come From.

What shall we say of the kids? It is a matter of wonder where all the souls come from; how much more wonderful, how stupefying and stunning is the thought of the myriads of young goats, whose existence is absolutely necessary to furnish the gloves of the whole civilized world? Kids! How is it that there exist six yards of ground anywhere without kids browsing thereon? One would expect that the earth would be teeming and swarming with kids. In every town in England, in France, in Europe, gloves made of what at least professes to be the skin of a kid are exposed for sale, while in the large capitals the number of shops devoted exclusively to the diffusion of kid gloves is almost incredible. Taking Paris and London alone and occupying ourselves only with a few of the principal thoroughfares, we should find enough of such shops to suggest the existence somewhere of such flocks of kids as would overrun at least all the pasture lands of the civilized earth.

I speak of the supply of the raw material and not the enormous multiplication and sale of the gloves themselves. When one remembers how many are the occasions of show and ceremony where gloves of the palest and most delicate tints are alone admissible, and how soon (covering as they do a part of the human frame which comes in continual contact with all sorts of objects) they become soiled and unfit for use, there is no difficulty in understanding the sale of almost any number of gloves that can be manufactured. It is the multiplication of the kids of whose skins the gloves are made that is the staggering subject of reflection, and it is connection with this, and remembering how comparatively rare, even in France, Italy, and Switzerland, and other goat-producing countries, are the occasions when the traveler encounters kids in any numbers, that I find myself again and again constrained to ask, O, where, and O, where are your glove-producing kids?

There was a taste the other day for pug dogs. Fashion had no sooner issued her mandate on the subject, than behold in all directions there were pugs! The earth appeared to teem with short noses and black muzzles, and any one who wanted a pug and (chose to pay for it) was straightway provided with one of those fascinating animals. Is there any room for doubt that if phœnixes or unicorns were to become the fashion, they would turn up by the score as soon as wanted?

The consumption of champagne is confined to no particular place, nor to any especial season of the year. Always, everywhere, by everybody, this favorite drink is appreciated. One would think that the supply required for this country alone, and during that one period of the year which we call "the season," would exhaust the produce of all the vineyards the champagne districts can furnish. Let the reader consider the Derby day, or merely take it in conjunction with the cup day with at Ascot, and then endeavor to form some dimly approximate notion of the quantity of champagne required. There are those who have seen the champagne dripping through the floors of carriages on Epsom Downs; and even those who have not been favored with that rich experience, but have merely witnessed the ordinary performance during the luncheon hours there, are able to form a tolerable accurate idea of the rate at which champagne disappears on the occasion of those wondrous orgies.

At the Ascot meeting it is the same story. The same at Goodwood, Doncaster, Newmarket. At all the minor races, at Henley, at every regatta held at Cowes or Ryde, or anywhere, and on all those occasions of a more private nature at which we have just seen the dish of plover eggs making a goodly appearance, it is again the same. The thought of all the champagne required for England, not to speak of the still greater quantities needed for the supply of Continental capitals, and there not alone for those great festal occasions when royal personages meet together and are entertained at banquets, balls, and the like, but for all the smaller and snugger meals which come off at the restaurants, cafes, hotels, and taverns—the thought, I say, of all this champagne, and all this society as I may say floating in it, becomes distracting.

But where does that somecreamy liquor all come from? We all know that we are expected to swallow a great deal in connection with our wines, besides the liquid itself. It requires a most remarkable amount of faith to suppose that those small tracts of land which give their name to the more renowned growths of France and Germany can supply all the cellars throughout Europe. An enigma this, which, with regard to other wines, may be looked upon as simply a difficulty; but which, when champagne is in question, culminates into an impossibility.—All the Year Round.

A Truly Novel Project.

The Montreal Witness, a thoroughly British paper and, moreover, enjoying the largest circulation of any newspaper in the Dominion, has recently propounded a scheme which, if it has no other merit, possesses that of novelty. It proposes a customs union between Canada and the United States! We will allow the Witness to speak for itself:

"The United States and the Dominion of Canada (the latter with the consent of the British Government) agree to abolish, mutually all restriction upon the intercourse between the two countries, and to establish free trade as completely between them, as if they were one country [including freedom of navigation, transportation, and fisheries,] upon the following conditions:

1st—The United States to reduce at once, by five per cent., its tariff on manufactured goods imported from other countries than Canada, and afterwards to be free to make such further reductions as it sees fit, but in no case to add to its customs duties without the consent of Canada.

2nd—Canada to conform to the United States' tariff as above modified and restricted and also to conform to the United States' excise laws.

3rd—Each country to well and faithfully collect its customs and excise duties, keeping an exact account of the same, and the whole to be divided annually, according to population, between the respective countries, and if either country has collected more than its own share, as thus ascertained, it shall pay over the difference to the other."

It cannot be denied that such a scheme offers enormous advantages to both countries, but it is equally obvious that it bristles with difficulties. Perhaps one objection in the mind of some would be that it looks very like the thin end of the Annexation wedge. We confess it does appear highly probable that a Customs Union would ultimately lead to a political union.

Death in the Frying-pan.—"Died of a frying-pan," is the epitaph which the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer say appropriately belongs to to the grave-yards of thousands of Southern people, on account of the manner of preparing food in that part of the country. The editor says of a Southern man:

His standard food is a piece of bacon fried, the fat taken and, with flour or meal, mixed into a heavy mass and consigned to the inevitable frying-pan, and out comes a lump of leathery looking something, which the stomach of an ostrich could not digest. Give him a chicken, and what does he do with it? Cuts it up, and into the frying-pan it goes, after being slowly simmered until hard, it is put into a deep dish, and a quantity of grease poured over it, and what is not soaked up in chicken is made way with by soaking his frying-pan bread in it. Give him a rich, juicy steak, and into the frying pan it goes and is slowly simmered and simmered until no knife will cut it, and then eaten with heavy bread soaked in the remaining fat, and thus good, wholesome food in quantity to afford a wholesome meal for a French artisan's family, is by the frying pan process rendered not only barely enough for one man, but converted into a slow poison and a fruitful source of disease.

Scarcely a day passes but some poor sufferer applies to me for relief from the "Frying pan Disease," which relief I am unable to give, without an entire change of his or her habits; and unless such change is effected whose appropriate epitaph will be "Died of a Frying-pan."

HOAGLAND'S NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

Has purchased the right for this County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. B. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

Proposal.

The undersigned —— whose post office address is ——, county of ——, State of ——, proposes to convey the mails of the United States from July 1, 1870, to June 30 1874, on route No. ——, between —— and ——, under the advertisement of the Postmaster General, dated September 3, 1869, with celerity, certainty and security, for the annual sum of —— dollars.

This proposal is made with full knowledge of the distance of the route, the weight of the mail to be carried, and all other particulars in reference to the route and service, and also after careful examination of the laws and instructions attached to the advertisement.

Dated (Signed.)

Guarantee.

The undersigned, residing at ——, State of ——, undertake that, if the foregoing bid for carrying the mail on route No —— be accepted by the Postmaster General, the bidder shall, prior to the 1st day of July, 1870, enter into the required obligation or contract to perform the service proposed, with good and sufficient sureties.

This we do, understanding distinctly the obligations and liabilities assumed by guarantors under the 27th section of the act of Congress of July 2, 1836.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS AND POSTMASTERS.

Containing also conditions to be incorporated in the contracts to the extent the Department may deem proper.

1. Seven minutes are allowed to each intermediate office, when not otherwise specified, for assorting the mails, but on railroad and steamboat routes there is to be no more delay than is sufficient for an exchange of the mail pouches.

2. On railroad and steamboat lines, and other routes where the mode of conveyance admits of it, the special agents of the Post Office Department, also post office blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without extra charge.

3. On railroad and steamboat lines the route agents of the Department, also the British and Canada mails when offered, and the agents accompanying them, are conveyed without charge, and for the use of the United States agents a commodious car or part of a car, properly lighted, warmed, and furnished and adapted to the convenient separation and due security of the mails, is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the Department.

Railroad and steamboat companies are required to take the mail from, and deliver it into, the postoffices at the beginning and end of their routes, and to and from all offices not more than eighty rods from a station or landing. Proposals may be submitted by the companies for the performance of all other side service—that is, for offices over eighty rods from a station or landing.

There will be way bills prepared by postmasters, or other agents of the Department, to accompany the mails conveyed on railroads and steamers, specifying the number and destination of the several bags. On other principal routes, likewise, receipts will be required and way bills forwarded, the latter to be examined by the several postmasters to insure regularity in the delivery of mails.

4. No pay will be made for trips not performed; and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip will be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. For repeated delinquencies of the kind herein specified enlarged penalties proportioned to the nature thereof and the importance of the mail may be made.

5. For leaving behind or throwing off the mails, or any portion of them, for the admission of passengers or for being concerned in setting up or running an express conveying intelligence in advance of the mail, a quarter's pay may be deducted.

6. Fines will be imposed unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive in contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from, or deliver it into a post office; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed or lost; and for refusing after demand to convey the mails frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a coach, car, or steamboat on the route.

7. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract; for violating the post office laws or disobeying the instructions of the Department; for refusing to discharge a carrier when required by the Department to do so; for running an express as aforesaid, or for transporting persons or packages conveying mailable matter out of the mail.

8. The Postmaster General may order an increase of service on a route by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change schedules of departures and arrivals in all cases and particularly to make them conform to connections with railroads without increase of pay, provided the running time be not abridged. The Postmaster General may also discontinue or curtail the service in whole or in part, in order to place on the route superior service, or whenever the public interests in his judgment shall require such discontinuance or curtailment for any other cause, he allowing as full indemnity to the contractor one month's extra pay on the amount of service dispensed with, and a pro rata compensation for the amount of service retained and continued.

9. Payments will be made by collections from or drafts on postmasters, or otherwise after the expiration of each quarter—say in November, February, May and August.

10. The distances are given according to the best information, but no increased pay will be allowed should they be greater than advertised, if the points to be supplied are correctly stated. Bidders must inform themselves on that point, and also in reference to the weight of the mail, the condition of the roads, hills, streams, &c., and all toll bridges, ferries or obstructions of any kind by which expense may be incurred. No claim for additional pay based on such ground can be considered, nor for alleged mistakes or misapprehension as to the degree of service, nor for bridges destroyed, ferries discontinued or other obstructions increasing distance, occurring during the contract term. Offices established after this advertisement is issued, and also during the contract term, are to be visited without extra pay, if the distance be not increased.

11. Bidders are cautioned to mail their proposals in time to reach the Department by the day and hour named, (3 p m, [illegible]) for bids received after that time will not be considered in competition with a bid of reasonable amount [illegible]
